Description

In the heart of Paris, opposite the Hôtel des Invalides in the 7th arrondissement, lies this private mansion, hidden from view. Built in the early 20th century, its style evokes a bygone era, while retaining the elegance of French nobility. Inside, the period salon is richly decorated with wood panelling and antique paintings, while the reception room evokes the splendour of aristocratic banquets. Spread over three floors and built on a low ground floor including an indoor swimming pool, this private mansion offers around 700m² of living space, ideal for large families. Its spacious rooms and independent apartments offer generous, comfortable living space. A separate entrance also gives access to the upper floors, which comprise three independent apartments, giving occupants total privacy and freedom. Ceiling heights of over 3.5m in all rooms, marble fireplaces, trumeaux and ceiling moldings, and unique stained-glass windows illuminate the residence. Agency fees payable by vendor
