Description

A newly renovated traditional property with lovely views. This beautiful property takes you back to a time when artisans and stone masons were commissioned to show elegance and prosperity in countryside mansions. Spread out over three levels the property boasts multiple beautiful carved stone archways entrances and stands at the top of one of the most breathtaking valleys on the island. Three entrances lead into three separate sections of the house, each one interconnected. One of the entrances has a unique stone inscription portraying the prosperity of the house. The ground level has a spacious open plan living area and dining area. An impressive stone arch connects this area with the kitchen which features a wine cellar and a further dining and seating area. Also on this level is a playroom, WC and another room which is currently a study. Large balcony doors lead to the outside garden with its stunning views. There you will find a BBQ area, a second support kitchen, an outdoor bathroom with washing machines and a large outdoor dining area under a covered pergola and gazebo area to enjoy the most beautiful sunsets and peace and quiet. Inside the house, two separate staircases lead up to the second with 6 bedrooms, 2 bathrooms and a separate WC service this floor. A further cosy sitting room is also located on this level. All the bedrooms lead out to a large terrace balcony area with views of the valley and the northwest coast and sunset. A wooden staircase then leads up to the third level where there is a further bedroom, a private office and yet another sitting room. The property is full of history and has been restored to a very high standard with all modern facilities in place. The village of Sgourades is halfway between the beaches of the NE and the NW. The bustling town of Acharavi is a 20 minute drive and Corfu Town is 45 minutes away.
