Description

A substantial property, over three floors, positioned in an idyllic setting, with its own private mooring and gardens, behind a gated entrance. Inglewood is a period property situated in the prestigious Fisheries Estate, an exclusive residential road, located near the village of Bray in Maidenhead, Berkshire. The road is comprised of gated private, high value period houses, with many having direct access to the River Thames. Inglewood enjoys a wide riverside mooring with direct river frontage, from its lawned private gardens. A well-equipped kitchen/breakfast room is accompanied by a 34' drawing/dining room with direct access to a wide dining terrace, A separate family room, cloakroom, boot and utility room completes the ground floor accommodation. Five bedrooms cover the first floor, with the main bedroom enjoying a roof terrace, ensuite dressing room and bathroom with under floor heating. An open staircase then leads up to two further bedrooms on the second floor providing scope for office space or playrooms. Outside A secluded dining terrace is an ideal sun trap and well positioned for entertaining, whilst enjoying views of the River Thames. The detached timber pool house with heated swimming pool, which requires refurbishment, leads to the lower terrace. This is an unusual benefit for a riverside property. The well-stocked mature garden then leads you down to the landing stage and mooring, with a charming riverfront gazebo for al fresco dining. Situation Close to the beautiful village of Bray, famous for its culinary scene, including famous restaurants such as The Fat Duck and Waterside Inn. The main feature of the location is the easy access to the Elizabeth line, with trains from Maidenhead into Paddington and the City.
