Description

Nestled in the sought-after neighborhood of Madison, this two-family brick home greets you with soft light, a quiet tree-lined block, and a sense of comfort that feels like a cozy hug. The main duplex unit is generous in both light and space: on the first floor you will find wide living and dining rooms, a true separate eat-in kitchen with big windows, and a half bath for convenience. Upstairs you'll find three comfortable bedrooms, including one with its own balcony, plus a large full bath with both tub and separate shower under a skylight. Closets are thoughtfully placed throughout, giving the home plenty of storage. The lower-level apartment has its own private entrance and direct access to the backyard. Complete with living area, bedroom, bath, and kitchenette, it's a flexible setup for extended family, a home office, or rental income. Outdoor living comes easy here — enjoy your quiet coffee time on the front porch, go to the second-floor balcony, or gather in the backyard, which is large enough for play, barbecues, and extra parking. And then there's the private garage — a true treasure in Brooklyn, offering secure parking and everyday convenience. Fully renovated from the roof to the wiring in 2004, the house now just needs a few loving touches to bring it fully back to life. It's the kind of home where every day begins and ends in comfort. Madison is known for its beautiful quiet streets, well-kept homes, and dynamic vibe, with parks, schools, shopping, and eateries nearby. Public transportation is close at hand, making daily life both easy and connected. This home has everything you need to live comfortably today—and the potential to grow into your next chapter tomorrow.
