Description

Behold this beautiful ranch-infused Scandinavian home nestled among multi-million-dollar country estates within the rolling hills of Medina. From the long entrance through private and serene acreage to the experience as you step inside, this home will embrace you. Designed by Nordic architect Rolf Lokensgard, this multi-structural home creates interior havens that nurture seclusion and combine them with open spaces that invite gathering and entertainment. It is a crisp, modern home imbued with a relaxed ranch tone and texture that is as enjoyable to live in as it is to share. Crafted from premium materials, every detail feels considered and purposeful and every space bears true hallmarks of custom design - from the tall doors and entryways to long hallways that stretch the length of the home, the clean lines and strong foundations that Nordic design favors are beautifully executed throughout the dwelling and landscape, balancing privacy with natural light and all of it brought together with a tasteful level of modern technology. The seven private acres are nestled within a spectacular forest of pines, maples, and flowering crabapples - a true oasis that feels worlds away with an easy drive to everything you need to access. The natural elements that exist within the home's design, such as wood and stone, are used deliberately to create warmth and authenticity. And the neutral colors and warm textiles keep it calm to inspire distinct furnishings and accents. A soaring floor-to-ceiling fieldstone fireplace anchors the great room and kitchen, setting the tone for the central area of the home. The main level primary ensuite offers a peaceful retreat, and its integrated upper-level study provides the perfect flex space for work or quiet reflection. Four additional bedrooms and two baths occupy the second level, along with a vaulted family/bonus room that offers endless possibilities for how you live and gather. The basement and tuck under garage provide an expanse of storage and utility. Outside, a heated pool, hot tub, sport court, and trampoline are thoughtfully integrated into the property, offering recreation while preserving its architectural character. At the rear of the home, an oversized Ipe wood deck sits like a treehouse above acres of lush woods and protected marshland, creating an ideal setting for morning coffee or alfresco dinners. With its stunning design and maximized functionality, this home will inspire you beyond measure - to live and share with your own celebration of style
