Description

A lovely home with loads of character in the popular village of Sinarades. Ivy is a lovely, large home with lots of character in the popular traditional all-year village of Sinarades, close to Agios Gordis beach. As you enter the old-style double doors into the living area, it is full of light from the skylight and the white-washed stone walls. Here, there is a dining area, a wood-burning stove and a lovely seating area looking out onto the garden. To the left of the living area is the kitchen and a storage room, then leading through to the main bedroom with a double bed and also an ensuite shower and another storage room. The wooden staircase leads up to two more bedrooms and another shower room again with skylights in the cathedral-style roof, giving a light, airy and spacious feeling to each room. In the front bedroom, there is a "window seat" built in to sit and admire the view over the rooftops to the Pantokrator mountain range. Outside, Ivy has its own walled courtyard-style garden with plenty of space for seating and a BBQ.
