Description

This incredibly pretty two bedroom stone house is in a lovely quiet spot on the hillside near to Vigla, and enjoys spectacular views across the channel towards Albania.A quiet country road heads off the main coast road up into the little-known hamlet of Skatsiolatika, where this charming old stone house is located. Beautifully renovated, it is modern yet retains lots of original atmosphere and character. A driveway leads up to the parking spot under the shade of an olive tree, and stone steps invite you onto the large terrace and main entrance. Opening into a large open plan room with a modern kitchen at one end and sitting area at the other, there is plenty of room for comfortable year round living. A wood burning stove stands in one corner, perfect for cozy winter evenings. A modern bathroom is at one end of this room, with a mezzanine storage area above. Lots of windows allow light to flood into the room, and from which to enjoy the spectacular views. The terrace is large, with plenty of space for comfortable seating and outside dining, the perfect spot to take in the views. A couple of steps lead down into the bedroom; this has exposed stone walls and brick columns, creating a lovely rustic atmosphere to the room. Another bedroom and bathroom is separated from the main house and reached from the pathway to the side. On a lower level, below the terrace, the bedroom is light and bright, and has a modern shower room. In addition to the house, there is a separate 'apothiki' (store room) housing the washing machine and general storage. There is plenty of space in the garden for a swimming pool to be constructed, and several mature olive trees on the plot. It is unusual for houses of this kind in this much sought after area to come up for sale, so we believe this is well worth viewing!
